

I have recently heard that Sinclair Broadcasting has made a decision to force their stations to air an anti-Kerry documentary just days before the election. My understanding is that companies who use the public airwaves free of charge are under legal jurisdiction to serve the public interest. This is a violation of public interest and is a perfect example of big business using their positions and power to stop freedom of information in our country.

If Sinclair will not also force their stations to air "Going Upriver", this would be a grave misuse of their power and position and their license should be revoked.

Sinclair's actions show why we need to strengthen media ownership rules, not weaken them. They show why the license renewal process needs to involve more than a returned postcard. Thank you.
